RE: MUR 7251 (Loudermilk for Congress, et al.)

Dear Mr. Fowlkes:

On April 10, 2018, the Federal Election Commission reviewed the allegations in your complaint dated May 30, 2017, and found that, on the basis of the information provided in your complaint and information provided by the Respondents, there is no reason to believe that Barry Loudermilk, Loudermilk for Congress and Charles Nida in his official capacity as treasurer, and Loudermilk for State Senate violated 52 U.S.C. § 30122, 11 C.F.R. § 110.4(b), or 11 C.F.R. § 110.3(d) by engaging in a reciprocal contribution scheme. The Commission also found no reason to believe that Barry Loudermilk and Loudermilk for State Senate violated 52 U.S.C. § 30125(e)(1) by making payments to Desiree Jean Loudermilk. The Commission also found no reason to believe that Desiree Jean Loudermilk, Earl Leroy "Buddy" Carter, Buddy Carter for Congress and Paul Kilgore in his official capacity as treasurer, Lindsey Allen Tippins, Tippins for State Senate, Shultz for Georgia, Leonard Edwin Setzler, Citizens to Elect Ed Setzler, Ralph Hudgens, and Friends of Ralph Hudgens 52 U.S.C. § 30122. The Commission chose to exercise its prosecutorial discretion and dismiss the allegations that Barry Loudermilk and Loudermilk for State Senate violated 52 U.S.C. § 30125(e)(1) and 11 C.F.R. § 300.62 by spending impermissible funds in connection with a federal or non-federal election. Accordingly, on April 13, 2018, the Commission closed the file in this matter.

Documents related to the case will be placed on the public record within 30 days. See Disclosure of Certain Documents in Enforcement and Other Matters, 81 Fed. Reg. 50,702 (Aug. 2, 2016), effective September 1, 2016. The Factual and Legal Analysis/Analyses, which more fully explain(s) the Commission's finding(s) is enclosed.

The Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended, allows a complainant to seek judicial review of the Commission's dismissal of this action. See 52 U.S.C. § 30109(a)(8).

If you have any questions, please contact Ray Wolcott, the attorney assigned to this matter, at (202) 694-1302.

Sincerely,

Lynn Y. Tran Assistant General Counsel

The Act prohibits federal candidates, federal officeholders, their agents, and entities established, financed, maintained, or controlled ("EFMC'd") by federal candidates or officeholders from soliciting, receiving, directing, transferring, or spending funds in connection with any election unless the funds are subject to the limitations, prohibitions, and reporting requirements of the Act.³ Further, Commission regulations prohibit the transfer of funds or assets from a candidate's campaign committee for a nonfederal election to his or her principal campaign committee.⁴ The Act also prohibits making a contribution in the name of another, knowingly permitting one's name to be used to effect such a contribution, and knowingly accepting a contribution made in the name of another.⁵

The Complaint also states that these payments and other "administrative assistance" payments to Desiree Loudermilk constitute the conversion of state campaign funds to personal use. Id. As the Loudermilk response points out, these allegations are not within the jurisdiction of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended (the "Act"). Georgia law permits state campaign funds to be used to defray costs associated with state assembly members' official duties.⁶ Such state officeholder expenses and administrative costs of maintaining a state committee would not fall under the restrictions of section 30125 if they are unrelated to any election.⁷

A. Alleged Reciprocal Contributions

The Complaint alleges that the State Committee made $2,750 in contributions and the Federal Committee received $3,250 in contributions as part of a scheme to impermissibly transfer State Committee funds to the Federal Committee using the recipient committees as conduits for these transfers. Specifically, the Complaint identifies five instances after Loudermilk became a federal candidate where the State Committee made a contribution to a federal or state candidate that was preceded by or followed by a contribution to the Federal Committee by the same committee or a related committee or individual. Thus, the complaint alleges that through these reciprocal contributions the Respondents engaged in a conduit contribution scheme.

See Advisory Op. 2003-20 (Reyes) (explaining that "[i]f the funds are not raised or spent in connection with an election, then the funds do not fall within the scope of section 30125); AO 2009-26; Advisory Op. 2004-14 (Davis). See also Advisory Op. 2016-25 (Mike Pence for Indiana) (stating that campaigns "may use nonfederal funds in its state campaign account to pay for the storage of state campaign assets, legal or accounting expenses necessary to comply with state disclosure requirements applicable to state committees, and legal or accounting expenses for winding down the state campaign, provided that such spending is consistent with state law").

The Commission has previously considered alleged arrangements to transfer a state 1 committee's funds into a federal committee's account through intermediaries. 15 The Complaint 2 in this matter relies solely on similarities in the timing and amounts of the contributions to 3 support the argument that Respondents participated in a reciprocal contribution scheme, even 4 though some of the alleged reciprocal contributions lack even these similarities. For example, on 5 May 31, 2013. Thomas Shultz contributed $250 to the Federal Committee and on December 12, 6 7 2013 (six and a half months later), the State Committee contributed $250 to Thomas Shultz's campaign for Georgia State School Superintendent. 16 In another instance, the Complaint cites a 8 9 $500 contribution from Suzanne Hudgens, the wife of state candidate Ralph Hudgens, as the 10 reciprocal contribution for a $500 contribution from the State Committee to Friends of Ralph Hudgens. 17 The lack of similarities in timing, and even sources of contributions, undermines the 11 12 Complaint's conclusion that these contributions were part of a reciprocal contribution scheme where the recipient committees served as conduits for transfers between the State Committee and 13 14 Federal Committee. The Complaint does not allege, and the available record does not include, any additional 15

- 1 face. Thus there does not appear to be a sufficient factual nexus between the transactions to
- 2 conclude that the State Committee was impermissibly funneling its funds through the recipient
- 3 committees to the Federal Committee as part of a conduit scheme. Accordingly, the Commission
- 4 finds no reason to believe that Barry Loudermilk, Loudermilk for State Senate, or Loudermilk
- 5 for Congress violated 52 U.S.C. § 30122 or 11 C.F.R. §§ 110.4(b) and 110.3(d) and the recipient
- 6 committees violated 52 U.S.C. § 30122 in connection with the alleged reciprocal contributions.

B. State Committee Spending After Loudermilk Became a Federal Candidate

The Complaint also alleges that the State Committee and Loudermilk violated 30125(e) when the State Committee, after Loudermilk became a federal candidate, spent non-federal funds in connection with a federal or a non-federal election for (1) $3,336.39 in payments to Desiree Loudermilk for administrative assistance, ¹⁸ and (2) the contributions (discussed above) in the amounts of $1,000, $500, $250, $250, and $500 to Buddy Carter for Congress, Tippins for State Senate, Schultz for Georgia, Citizens to Elect Ed Setzler, and Friends of Ralph Hudgens, respectively. ¹⁹ Because Loudermilk EFMC'd the State Committee, ²⁰ any funds the State Committee transferred, spent, or disbursed in connection with a federal or non-federal election after he became a federal candidate on April 20, 2013, were required to comply with the restrictions of section 30125(e). Furthermore, because Loudermilk was not a simultaneous state

Id. at 4. The Complaint does not address the majority of the expenditures made by the State Committee after Loudermilk became a federal candidate, which appear to be similar to permissible administrative and officeholder expenses under Georgia law that the Commission has previously concluded are unrelated to an election. See Advisory Op. 2009-26 (Coulson) at 5 ("AO 2009-26") (concurrent state representative and federal House candidate); Advisory Op. 2007-01 (McCaskill) at 3 (former state candidate and current Federal Senate candidate and officeholder); Factual & Legal Analysis at 9, MUR 6601 (Oelrich) (concurrent state senator and Federal House candidate).

- and federal candidate, he could not take advantage of the Act's exception allowing candidates
- 2 simultaneously running for federal and state office to spend nonfederal funds "solely in
- 3 connection with such election for State or local office."²¹
- The State Committee did not accept any contributions after Loudermilk became a federal
- 5 candidate, but it had previously accepted corporate contributions. Thus some portion of the
- 6 disbursements made after Loudermilk became a federal candidate were from funds that did not
- 7 comply with the Act's source prohibitions.²² We discuss below each of the Complaint's
- 8 allegations that the Committee spent such nonfederal funds on a federal or nonfederal election in
- 9 violation of the Act.

²¹ See 52 U.S.C. § 30125(e)(2); Advisory Op. 2005-02 (Corzine) at 2, 4; Advisory Op. 2003-32 (Tenenbaum) at 5.

Georgia law permits individuals, corporations, political committees, and political parties to contribute up to $2,500 to primary candidates for the General Assembly. See Georgia Government Transparency and Campaign Finance Act (Effective January 1, 2014), Article 2 § 21-5-35(a). The State Committee's disclosure reports did not reflect any facially excessive individual contributions during the period at issue in this matter.

1. There is No Reason to Believe the State Committee Transferred Funds to the Federal Committee Through Payments to Desiree Loudermilk
 The Complaint argues that the State Committee payments to Desiree Loudermilk for administrative assistance were for services actually provided to the Federal Committee and thus constituted the conversion of State Committee funds to the Federal Committee. However, the available information does not support the Complaint's allegation.

The Complaint fails to provide any specific information to support the allegation that the payments to Mrs. Loudermilk were payments for services she provided to the Federal Committee as opposed to bona fide salary payments for services she provided as treasurer to the State Committee.²³ Furthermore, the available record shows that Mrs. Loudermilk had a longstanding history of providing administrative assistance to Loudermilk's campaign committees dating back to 2007 when she provided administrative services to the Barry Loudermilk Election Committee, Loudermilk's committee when he was a Georgia State Representative.²⁴ Mrs. Loudermilk also provided administrative assistance and served as treasurer to the State Committee when Loudermilk was in the Georgia State Senate prior to his federal candidacy. Following Loudermilk's declaration of federal candidacy, the State Committee paid Mrs. Loudermilk a total of $5,886.39 over 30 months for administrative expenses — an average of only $200 per month and in line with the payments she received from Loudermilk's committees before he became a federal candidate.

See MURs 5387 and 5446 (Welch for Wisconsin, et al.) at 20-21 (payment to spouse for serving as Committee treasurer was a bona fide salary payment and not a pretext for a transfer to the candidate's federal committee).

Loudermilk Resp. at 4-5.

MUR 7251 (Loudermilk for Congress, et al.) Factual and Legal Analysis Page 9 of 10

The Commission has previously concluded that payments for expenses and administrative costs of maintaining a state committee would not amount to spending funds in connection with an election under section 30125.²⁵ Based on the available information, the Commission finds no reason to believe the State Committee violated 52 U.S.C. § 30125(e)(1) with respect to the payments to Mrs. Loudermilk and no reason to believe Mrs. Loudermilk violated 52 U.S.C. § 30122 in connection with such payments.

2. The Commission Dismisses the Allegation that the State Committee Made Impermissible Contributions with Nonfederal Funds

Though we conclude that the $2,750 in contributions from the State Committee that are the subject of the Complaint do not appear to be reciprocal contributions, the Complaint alleges that these contributions also violated section 30125 because the State Committee used nonfederal funds to make the contributions. The Commission has allowed federal candidates who are state officeholders to donate federally permissible funds in a state account to other state and local political committees if the state committee uses a "reasonable accounting method" to separate permissible from impermissible funds (i.e., those raised consistent with state law but outside the Act's contribution limits and source restrictions), and makes the contributions with permissible funds. The State Committee does not assert that it used a reasonable accounting method to separate the funds it used to make the campaign contributions, although in its response, the State Committee represents that it had "sufficient federally acceptable funds to cover the amount of the contributions at the time they were made." 27

See Factual and Legal Analysis at 3-6, MUR 6820 (Carter, et al.).

1 Based on the State Committee's disclosure reports, it is unclear whether it had sufficient 2 federally permissible funds to cover the campaign contributions. Permissible individual 3 contributions comprised only $1,050 of the State Committee's funds while facially impermissible corporate contributions totaled $8,050.²⁸ The remaining contributions to the State 4 Committee were from PACs, trade associations, and LLCs. Without more information 5 6 concerning these donors' organizational structures, we cannot determine whether those 7 contributions would be federally permissible. 8 Nevertheless, given that $2,750 in campaign contributions are at issue and we can identify at least $1,050 in permissible funds, the Commission exercises its prosecutorial 9 10 discretion and dismisses the allegation that Loudermilk and the State Committee violated 11 52 U.S.C. § 30125(e)(1) by spending soft money for campaign contributions after Loudermilk 12 became a federal candidate.
